Tuesday, October 25. 1720.

Brussels, October 21.

The following Imperial Ordinance has been published here.

By the Emperour and King,
BEING informed that the contagious Distemper which at this Time afflicts the City of Marseilles, and the Places therabouts, increases more and more, and being willing to take all possible Precautions to secure our Low-Countries from that Calamity ; we have, (by Advice of those of our Council of State, and of our most dear and most beloved Cousin Hercule Joseph Louis Turinetti, Marquels de Pris, Grandee of Spain, Knight of the Order of the Annuciada, our Councillour of State, and our Plenipotentiary Minister for the Government of our Low-Countries,) prohibited and forbid, and we do prohibit and forbid Entrance at the Ports and Havens of our Countries, to all Ships and Vessels, indistinctly, of what Nation soever ; and also to those belonging to our Subjects, as well of the aforesaid Low-Countries, as of all others under our Dominion, loaden or not loaden, coming from the Ports of France in the Mediterranean.

And to the End there be no Mistake, we order the Masters of Boats placed at the Entrance of the said Ports and Havens, that as soon as any Ship, Vessel, or any Sail, shall appear in Sight, to go out to meet the said Vessel, Ship, or Boat, and to windward, if possible, and enquire from whence the Ship comes ; and in case she comes from any of the Ports of France in the Mediterranean, they shall advise the Captain, or Master of the said Ship, Vessel, or Boat, by the Help of a speaking Trumpet and approaching as little near as possible to the said Ship or Boat, to bear off immediately, acquainting him, that in case of Approach, he shall be presently sunk ; and at the same instant, the said Masters of Boats shall hoist a red Flag, as a Signal to the Governors and Commanders of the said Ports, that the said Vessel or Boat came from the said Ports of France in the Mediterranean.

And as for Ships, Vessels, and Boats, as well as those belonging to our Subjects of the Low-Countries, as to others under our Dominion, and of what Nation soever, that shall come from any of the Ports of France ; we require that they be obliged to perform Quarantine in such Places as shall be assigned for that purpose by the Governors and Magistrates of our Ports, forbidding all Persons, whether Officers, Seamen, or Passengers, on board the said Ships, Vessels, and Boats, to go ashore ; neither shall any Person go on board the said Ships without express Leave from the Governors and Magistrates.

The Captains or Masters of the said Ships, Vessels, and Boats, shall be obliged to produce to the Deputies of the Magistrates their Bills of Health, dispatched in the Ports they last sailed from, and in all the Ports where they took in their whole Loadings, or part of it, together with their Bills of Lading, they shall likewise be obliged to produce to the said Captains or Masters, their Crews and Passengers, certifying the State of their Health, or the Distempers among them, in case of the Death of any of them, to specify when, where, and of what kind of per, in order for the same to be laid before the Magistrates.

But the said Captains or Masters shall not deliver them, nor the said Deputies of the Magistrates receive them, till after they have been dipped in the water, or perfumed.

The Magistrates shall be obliged to cause Sorts and necessary Refreshments to be sent to the said Captains and Passengers (with the usual Precautions) which shall be according to the current Price.

No Sorts of Merchandise shall be unladed during the 40 Days, but of the following kind.

Wines, Brandy, Strong-waters, distilled Liquors, Vinegar, Oyl, Syrup, Rice, Corn, Saffron, Cofee, Berries, Salt, Olives, Capers, Anchovies, Chestnuts, and all sorts of green Fruits dried and preserved, Lead, Pewter, Saltpeter, Brimstone, Galls, Soap, Gums, and other things of the like Nature.

And as for all kinds of Goods and Merchandise liable to Infection, they shall not be imported to these Countries.

Whoever shall disembark, or enter our Ports, or on the Coast, without express Leave in Writing by the Governors and Magistrates, as likewise those who shall go in Boats to hold Entercours with Persons on board, enter the Ships, receive and convey to Shore any Person, whether Officers, Pilots, any of the Ships Crew, or Passengers belonging to the said Ships, or any Effects, to any Place whatsoever, without having a Licence for the same, shall be punished with Death, and their Ships confiscated.

We order all our Governors and Commanders of Places, Ports, and Havens, as likewise those of the chief Custom-House in Bruges, those of our City and Castleward of Furnes, and all others whom it may concern, to continue to appoint Guards, in order to watch diligently, that no Boat or Bark belonging to the Ships or Vessels, of what Nation soever, which shall stop on our Coasts, shall land any Person, or unlade any Goods or Merchandise whatsoever. We charge them to oblige them to bear off, and to fire upon them in case of Resistance. We require our dear and well beloved, those of our Council in Flanders, to cause forthwith to be published and made known this our Ordinance, there, and in such Places as shall be convenient, and in the usual Form and Manner, to the End that no Person may pretend Ignorance, or any Want of Information. We give express Orders to our Fiscal, Councillours, and to all others whomsoever it may concern, to take especial Care that this our Ordinance be exactly and punctually observed in all its parts, and to cause due Punishment to be inflicted on such as shall be found negligent in the Execution and Discharge hereof. Done at Brussels the 25th of October 1720, and Signed

Le Marques de Pris.

London, October 25.

London, in the Afternoon came in a Mail from Paris, Oct. 30.

Advices from Cadiz of the 11th Instant say, that Abundance of Troops and Provisions of War arrived there daily ; that 57 Transport-Ships, and 23 flat-bottom'd Boats came in there lately from the Corunna and from Bilbos, on board of which were upwards of 5000 Men, well cloathed and well armed. Letters from Madrid of the 13th Instant say, the King, Queen, and the Prince continued still at Balsain. The Archbishop of Toledo has lately put forth a Mandement, condemning an Anonimous Writing which has been wrote against the Chapel of our Lady of the Pillar at Saragossa. It is scarce possible to express the Vexation among the Stock-jobbers here, on Occasion of the Arrêt which was issued on the 25th Instant for suppressing all Exchange-Meetings at the Hôtel de Soissons, and for creating 60 new Agents of Exchange who are to manage the Paper Commerce. Although that Arrêt forbids all Meetings at any Place whatsoever, from the Day of its Publication, on account of the Paper Commerce, never was there so great a Crowd upon the Exchange at any time as there was in the Streets therabouts on the 27th and 28th Instant ; and on the 29th Instant the Stock-jobbers went in great Numbers to re-assemble in the Places about the Exchange, but Measures had been taken beforehand by the Archers and other proper Officers to disperse them. They assembled next about the Bank, but were again driven away by the Archers ; and meet now in different Places in the Streets, where they can.

Deal, Oct. 23. The King's Ships and outward-bound are still here.
